

Vermiculture

Come to a FREE Program by Dr. Julie Fronzuto

PWSCC Training Room

Saturday, April 17th, from 1-4pm.

Learn more about how you can turn your kitchen waste into a lush garden this season. Make your neighbors jealous!

“Let worms eat your organic waste! They will happily turn it into some of the best fertilizer on earth – worm compost, otherwise known as “worm castings” or “vermicompost.” A fascinating, fun and easy way to recycle your organic kitchen wastes, vermiculture:

- Requires very little work
- Produces no offensive odors
- Helps plants thrive

Only a few things are needed to make good worm compost: a bin, bedding, worms and worm food.” -
